Introduction

L.E.A.D. Academy Trust is committed to ensuring that its staff and central team have due regard to equality in all of its actions, in both its employment and dealings with staff, as well as its education provision.

L.E.A.D. Academy Trust and its members academies have due regard to the need to:

- Eliminate discrimination, harassment and victimisation
- Advance equality of opportunity
- Foster good relations between different people when carrying out their activities.

L.E.A.D. Academy Trust meets all the requirements of this legislation.

Legislative background - the Equalities Act 2010

The Equalities Act 2010 replaces all of the previous pieces of anti-discrimination law that have been introduced over the last forty years in Great Britain (for example, Race Relations (Amendment) Act 2000, Disability Discrimination Act 2005). The purpose of this new act is to consolidate and streamline the requirements whilst ensuring the protection of individuals from unfair treatment and promoting a fair and more equal society.

The Equality Act introduces a single equality duty for all public sector organisations including schools, this is known as the 'Public Sector Equality Duty' (PSED).

Public Sector Equality Duty (PSED)

The PSED was introduced by the Equality Act 2010, bringing together previous equality law under one umbrella, replacing the existing race, disability and gender equalities duties and extended the protection to further 'protected characteristics'.

The duty provides a framework to help focus attention on the impact of decisions and policies on specific groups, to identify priorities and strategies to tackle them.

The two specific duties required to demonstrate compliance with the PSED are:

- To publish information to show how they are complying with the Equality Duty. This must be updated at least annually.
- To prepare and publish one or more specific and measurable equality objectives at least every four years.

This duty requires all organisations to show how they are meeting the aims of the Equality Act 2010 by giving 'due regard' to the need to eliminate discrimination, advance equality of opportunity and foster good relations. These will be referred to as the three aims.

"What is meant by Due Regard?"

'Due regard' means giving 'relevant and proportionate consideration to the duty' and that the Teaching School Hub ensures that they actively consider the equality implications for their staff and participants with protected characteristics in all aspects of their strategy development and decision making.

The Equality Act protects the same groups of people that were covered by previous equality legislation, but these groups are now referred to as 'protected characteristics'.

Protected characteristics

A Protected Characteristic under the Equality Act 2010 covers the groups listed below:

- age
- gender reassignment
- disability
- race
- sex (including issues of transgender)/ sex reassignment
- maternity and pregnancy
- religion and belief
- sexual orientation
- marriage and civil partnership

Whilst the Teaching School Hub recognises that socio-economic background is not a protected characteristic under the Equality Act, the Teaching School Hub would like to raise awareness of the fact that people can face discrimination because of their class, or assumptions made about it.

The Teaching School Hub is fully aware of the full range of protected characteristics and has no unintended hierarchy within this document.

What does the Teaching School Hub set out to do?

Everything the Teaching School Hub does must be fair, non-discriminatory and not put individuals or groups of people at a disadvantage.

The Trust Board and Teaching School Hub Strategic Board will work closely with the Teaching School Hub to:

- Evaluate how well the Teaching School Hub is already achieving the three aims of the general duty across all of the 'protected characteristics';
- Identify where there are gaps and prioritise these for actions identifying at least 3 measurable 'equality objectives' to focus on over the next 3 years;
- Develop a 'Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Strategy', detailing all protected characteristics, and making clear the Teaching School Hub's responsibilities under the Act, its commitment and what it will do to achieve 'equality of opportunity'

The Teaching School Hub will publish their initial information and objectives, and then update the information at least annually and to publish objectives at least once every four years. Accessibility planning is a statutory duty and can be incorporated into the Teaching School Hub's Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Strategy'.

The Teaching School Hub vision for Equality

The Teaching School Hub welcomes a diverse community of staff and pupils. We seek to develop a community whose members value each other and contribute to the Teaching School Hub's vision "Working in partnership, achieving the highest outcomes for all"

Our aim is for an open, supportive environment where staff, partners and participants are given the support needed to realise their goals and aspirations. We seek to remove the barriers that prevent historically disadvantaged groups from realising their potential. We will treat all staff, partners, participants and applicants for employment equitably. No one will be accorded less favorable treatment because of age, disability, race, sex, sex reassignment, maternity and pregnancy, family circumstances, marital/civil partnership status, race, religious beliefs, sexual orientation or transgender status.

Our Public Sector Equality Duty

The Public Sector Equality Duty requires us to pay due regard to the following:

Eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment and victimisation and other conduct prohibited by the Equality Act 2010.

Advance equality of opportunity between people from different groups. This involves considering the need to:

- Remove or minimise disadvantages suffered by people due to their protected characteristics
- Meet the needs of people with protected characteristics
- Encourage people with protected characteristics to participate in public life or in activities where their participation is low

Foster good relations between people from different groups. This involves tackling prejudice and promoting understanding between people from different groups.

What actions and behaviours are unlawful?

The Act defines a number of types of unlawful behaviour, including:

- Direct discrimination
- Indirect discrimination
- Failing to make reasonable adjustments for disabled pupils or staff
- Discrimination arising from disability
- Harassment related to a protected characteristic
- Victimisation of someone because they have made, or helped with, a complaint about discrimination

Direct discrimination is when someone is treated less favourably than someone else because of their protected characteristic(s).

Indirect discrimination is when a provision that applies to everyone particularly disadvantages particular groups.

Harassment is unwanted conduct with the purpose or effect of violating a person's dignity, or which creates an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment.

Victimisation is when a person is subjected to a detriment because they have carried out a 'protected act' such as: complaining about harassment, bringing a claim under the Act, getting involved in another person's complaint.

Teaching School Hub Framework

This document outlines the essential knowledge and core activities that Teaching School Hubs (TSHs) can deploy to be effective in their critical role in system improvement. Developing the Teaching School Hub's approach to Ethnic, Diversity and Inclusion is central to this framework.

Section:	Heading:	Expectation:
1.4	Strategy: Governance	TSHs ensure the governance board is made up of a range of colleagues from diverse backgrounds. This might include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Black and minority ethnic groups • LGBT + • Female leaders • Disabled colleagues In the cases where it is hard to attract diverse colleagues into strategic positions, the TSH will use local partnerships and stakeholders to expand the pool of reach, recognising the many benefits a diverse board will bring to the TSH mission, vision, values, and impact.
3.2	Delivery and Staffing	TSHs recruit, manage and train a team of diverse facilitators, coaches, and mentors. Recruitment efforts should consider, where possible, underrepresented groups such as: black and minority ethnic groups, LGBTQ+, female leaders and disabled colleagues. This will ensure the TSH delivery is representative of the local community and consists of diverse voices and experiences.
3.3	Participant Recruitment	TSH recruitment efforts should target underrepresented groups in their area. Underrepresented groups might include black and minority ethnic groups, LGBTQ+, and female leaders. The most significant ethnic disparities in progression occur in ITT, where people from Asian, black, mixed, and other ethnic minority backgrounds are less likely to be accepted onto an ITT course than their white counterparts (NFER, 2022).
5.3	Partnerships: Building Expertise	TSHs have a duty to ensure their teacher and leader training and development offer is relevant to, inclusive of, and will effectively support and develop teachers and leaders in all phases and settings, considering EDI in the process.
6.2	Operations: People Development	TSHs establish an effective staffing model and HR function to enable the hub to achieve its strategic goals through people development. Establishing an effective team infrastructure is essential for TSHs. In addition to overseeing effective HR provision, hub leaders lead, performance manage, develop, and deploy their team effectively. TSHs ensure the TSH team is made up of a range of colleagues from diverse backgrounds. This might include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Black and minority ethnic groups • LGBTQ+ • Female leaders • Disabled colleagues

The Teaching School Hub Framework makes reference to high-quality, effective, ethical leadership and governance as being key to success in the school system. TSH leaders have a responsibility to ensure that staff know, understand, and are held to account for their professional responsibilities. TSH leaders are responsible for safeguarding, ensuring that the hub and all its suppliers operate effectively and efficiently within the required regulatory frameworks and meet all statutory duties.

The low % of minority groups across Lincolnshire provides a challenge when it comes to attracting diverse colleagues into strategic positions. The Teaching School Hub will use local partnerships and stakeholders to expand the pool of reach, recognising the many benefits a diverse board will bring to the Teaching School Hub mission, vision, values, and impact. The Teaching School Hub will work closely with the Statement of Action and Commitments on Equality, Diversity and Inclusion in Education as adopted by 19 sector organisations in 2021 including:

Dame Alison Peacock, Chief Executive of the Chartered College of Teaching said:

“We should constantly seek to achieve greater diversity, equity and inclusivity across the teaching profession. Teachers will benefit from open and honest conversations about the importance of building racial literacy, thereby encouraging all pupils to embrace who they are and build aspiration for their future role in a more inclusive society.

“The important role schools play in supporting social cohesion is needed now more than ever. However, if the profession is to reflect the communities we serve, we need a greater understanding of the barriers some will face in entering teaching and the barriers that may prevent career progression.

NAHT Paul Whiteman, general secretary of school leaders’ union NAHT, said:

“Education can play a pivotal role in tackling discrimination in society. Through education we can start to build a truly inclusive society. Through education we can change minds, and challenge prejudice.

“School leaders have a unique and vital role to play. Positive action by leaders can set the right atmosphere in the workplace so that the full potential of all staff in the school is recognised. We must make sure that education is a sector where people from all backgrounds and experiences feel encouraged to consider teaching and school leadership as an option.

“Leaders are also at the heart of any school’s effort to make sure that pupils understand their rights and responsibilities as young citizens of a multicultural nation like the UK.

The roles and responsibilities within the Teaching School Hub community

We believe that promoting Equality is a Teaching School Hub responsibility:
